Analysis and Differential Geometry Seminar

Additive smoothing in sets of small doubling

Giorgis Petridis
University of Georgia

Abstract: A useful principle is that taking convolutions tends to 'smoothen' functions. We will explore this principle in the context of characteristic functions of finite sets and get a glimpse of its applications to additive number theory.

Monday, October 23, 2023, 4:00 pm
Mathematics and Science Center: MSC W301

Mathematics
Emory University